

JOINED by GOD: Unconventional Devotions for Christian Couples

The most favorable estimate of the divorce rate among Christians is twenty-five percent. That doesn't count couples who are struggling, those trying to white-knuckle their way through life, or those who have given up but stayed married. On any given Sunday, if four couples occupy a row at church, at least one of those marriages will end in divorce, and up to two of those marriages are struggling.
